Postponed Her Bath.

Miss Flora Shaw, the well known correspondent of the London Times, was once travelling through Africa in a bullock wagon. The sun was blazing, the bullocks were slow, the dust was insupportable. She was making for a frontier town, where she anticipated the comforts of a bath. At the entrance to the place Miss Shaw, dead beat, dusty and irritable, found herself confronted with the ordeal of a public reception. The officials read her a welcome. She was as civil as she could be. Then she bolted for the hotel. She gave but one order—"Hot water, quick!"
She sat on the edge of the bed and waited. Some minutes passed. At last a black servant entered with a tin vessel, in which there was something steaming. Seizing it, Miss Shaw poured out a milky, odoriferous liquid. She turned to the servant for an explanation.
The hotel was very short of water.
As a distinguished guest, a point had been stretched for her. They had sent her the water in which the fish had just been boiled!

Living by His Books.

An amusing story is told of Robert Buchanan, an author, who, like many another well known literary man, had a hard struggle at the beginning of his career. He had just published one of his early novels when one day he found himself the possessor of a fine appetite, but without any money in his pocket at the moment to get a meal.
He thought of ways and means for some time and finally hit upon an idea.
He went to the office of his publisher and asked for three copies of his new novel, directing that the cost should be placed to his account. Armed with the fresh, nicely bound volumes, he immediately sought out the nearest secondhand bookseller and disposed of the copies for as much as they would bring.
"I remember I enjoyed that dinner tremendously," he said. "It proved to my entire satisfaction that even the humblest author could live by his books!"

New York Pawnbrokers.

In New York the pawnbroker is compelled to wait a year and one month before offering pawned articles for sale.
During the last month of this period the merchandise must be so advertised that the person who pawned the goods may recognize them as his property from the description given in the published notice.
As an instance of the severity of the code against any infraction of this rule a pawnbroker who loaned a certain lady $5,000 upon a valuable necklace valued at $12,000 and at the expiration of the required limit sold the jewels without specifying explicitly enough so that the lady was enabled to recognize and redeem her property the New York court ordered that the lender pay to the lady $5,000 and a year's interest on the value of the necklace.

A Curious Royal Custom.

When any Spanish sovereign dies, the body is at once submitted to the process of fossilization, nor can it be placed in the royal pantheon until the body has been absolutely turned into stone.
Curiously enough, the period required for fossilization varies considerably.
Some royal bodies have become solidified in a very short period, while others have taken years before the fossiliza-tion took place. It took exactly thirty-seven years to convert the body of the father of Alfonso XIII. of Spain into stone.

Riding Away With the Bride.

In many of the border counties of England the quaint old bridal customs of hundreds of years ago are still in vogue. The parents carefully abstain from appearing at the marriage ceremony, clinging to the idea that the bridegroom still rides away on a foaming steed with his bride behind him as in the good old days. The brides prepare the custom to the modern method of being given away at the altar in the orthodox fashion.

To Reform Him.

Minister—You say you are going to marry a man to reform him. That is noble. May I ask who it is?
Miss Beattie—It's young Mr. Bond-cliff.
Minister—Indeed! I did not know he had any bad habits.
Miss Beattie—Yes, his friends say that he is becoming quite miserly.— New York Weekly.

Good Position.

A young lady applicant for a school, says a St. Louis humorist, was asked the question, "What is your position upon whipping children?" and her reply was, "My usual position is on a chair, with the child held firmly across my knees face downward." She got the school.

Ocular Demonstration.

Tourist—Land pretty fertile around here?
Western Farmer—Waal, yer see them telegraph poles? Waal, las' week they was only hitchin' posts!

The Men With Ideas.

Ideas rule the world today, and a new idea leads the world to progress; hence the man with ideas is the real sovereign and leader of the people.—Maxwell's Talisman.

His Oversight.

He—Why didn't you answer my letter asking you to marry me?
She—You didn't inclose a stamp.—

A Vacuum Pressure Experiment.

Chemical science has taught us how to overcome the dreaded diseases that have swept away whole cities in the past. It has taught us the manufacture of explosives and munitions of war and has made possible the greatly improved modes of travel, and it may be truly said that to chemistry we owe the most material progress the world has made.
While this little experiment will not deal with the hidden secrets that live in the famous laboratories or treat upon the mystic powers of viscosity and relegation, it will show what power the absence of air has in attracting movable substances into the place that has been vacated by the air. Few think when they breathe the atmosphere that surrounds them that it has a pressure of fifteen pounds to the square inch or that it can attract even a piece of iron into the space which it leaves.
For an example of the strength of air take any tumbler, fill it about half full of tissue paper, set fire to the paper, turn over the glass in a basin containing water about one-half inch deep and then watch the water ascend the interior of the glass.

Didn't Know His Own Child.

At Antietam, just after the artillery had been sharply engaged, the Rock-bridge (Va.) battery was standing waiting orders. General Lee rode by and stopped a moment. A dirty faced driver about seventeen said to him:
"General, are you going to put us in again?"
Think of such a question from such a source to the general of the army, especially when that general's name was Lee!

Spoke Too Soon.

Alexandre Dumas was one day the guest of Dr. Gistal, a leading practitioner in Marseilles. After dinner, while the coffee was being handed round, the host requested the great novelist to enrich his album with one of his witty improvisations.
"Certainly," replied Dumas, with a smile, and, drawing out a pencil, he wrote under the eyes of his entertainer the following lines: Since Dr. Gistal came to our town To cure diseases casual and hereditary The hospital has been pulled down.
"You flatterer!" here exclaimed the doctor, mightily pleased; but the poet went on:
And we have made a larger cemetery.

Mrs. Hamilton's Ice Cream.

Mrs. Alexander Hamilton had the first ice cream in the city of Washington. She used to tell with amusement of the delight with which President Andrew Jackson first tasted it. Guests at the next White House reception were treated to the frozen mystery, and great was the fun of the initiated when they saw the reluctance of others to taste the cold stuff. Those from the rural districts especially eyed it suspiciously, then melted each tenspoonful with the breath before swallowing it. The next time they had a chance they ate it with delight.

It Wanted His Tongue.

At an auction sale in a Scottish village the auctioneer was trying to sell a number of domestic utensils, including a porridge pot. As usual, he was making a great fuss. Finishing, his keen eye caught a well known worthy, the headle, standing at the back of the crowd, and he shouted out: "Maister McTavish, make me an offer for this pot. Why, it would make a splendid kirk bell!"
"Aye," replied the headle, "if your tongue was in it."

Waited Twenty Years for a Solution.

A bit of pure and harmless mischief at recitation at Yale was the device of a member of the class of '72, who introduced at recitation a turtle covered by a newspaper paster on the shell.
The tutor had too much pride to come down from his perch and solve the mystery of the newspaper movement, but twenty years after, meeting a member of the class, his first and abrupt question was, "Mr. W., what made that paper move?"

Our Cooks.

"I believe," said the young physician, "that bad cooks supply us with half our patients."
"That's right," rejoined the old doctor, "and good cooks supply us with the other half."—Chicago News.

Dolly's Explanation.

"Mother, what are twins?" asked little Bobbie.
"I know," chimed in Dolly. "Twins are two babies just the same age; three babies is triplets, four is quadruplets, and five is centuplets."

DOCTORS IN CHINA.

They Feast Themselves Before They Physic Their Patients.

When a man in China becomes ill, his family sends for a doctor, and as no Chinese physician of established reputation will walk to a patient a carriage or a donkey must be sent to fetch him.
As soon as he reaches the house he is conducted into the best room and is entertained with tea, brandy and sweetmeats; or, if he has come a good distance, with a meal of several courses.
No matter how ill his patient may be he will not approach him until he has thoroughly refreshed himself in this manner.

When at last he goes to his bedside, he first asks the patient if he is still able to eat, and he next examines his pulse. After the patient has bared his entire forearm the physician places his finger on the pulse and for several moments does not utter a word. Sometimes, only one of his fingers and at other times all of them are employed at this work. When he breaks his silence, he describes minutely the disease from which the patient is suffering and writes a prescription.

Then the doctor takes his leave, promising to call again if necessary.
He receives, as a rule, no fee for this service, but if he is a druggist he charges a large price for the medicine, or if he is not a druggist he receives a satisfactory commission from the one who prepares it. Moreover, the patient, if he recovers, generally gives him a handsome present.

If the Bible Perished?

If every complete copy of the Bible were destroyed, would it be possible of reproduction by ministers, theologians and others?
The probability is that it would, even if, as the questioner supposes, all the type kept up by the various printers of Bibles and Testaments and prayer books were also destroyed. In the first place, such a vast number of commentaries have been published in different languages on various portions of the Bible that it would almost be possible to reconstruct the Scriptures from them, and such deficiencies as existed would be supplied by ancient writings, mainly controversial works, which reproduce the text very fully. Sermons, lectures and kindred works would also be of great assistance, and such deficiencies as might still remain would certainly be supplied from the memories of the vast numbers of Biblical students who have studied the Scriptures in so many different languages.— London Answers.

Would Make Mummies.

No reason exists, says a foreign journal, why persons should not keep their beloved ones with them after death, since their bodies can very easily be mummified. The ancient Egyptians, it continues, were experts in this art, and a close study of some of their mummies shows how they did the work.
The body is placed in a boiler which contains chloride of calcium and which is heated to 125 degrees and after remaining there for a certain time is taken out and steeped for twenty-four hours in a cold solution of sulphate of sodium. By that time it is transformed into a perfect mummy, and the mountain relatives or friends can safely take it home and install it in a place of honor.

Women in New Zealand.

A man with daughters need not feel ashamed in New Zealand. He's a political power, a big man in the district in which he resides. All women over twenty-one years of age can vote, so the wife of many a daughter often decides a closely contested election.
Then, again, women are much sought after matrimonially, for they are outnumbered by the men two to one. There is no need for a woman becoming an old maid. The women are good dressers, and the styles are as nearly up to date as those of London and New York.

Sea Talk.

Bobby—You have always shown a predilection for sea tales, haven't you?
I know you always used to be reading them when we were in college.
Dicky—Yes; and I still like them as much as ever. By the way, on that sea voyage I took last year I was much astonished to find how unfamiliar the sailors were with sea language. They didn't talk a bit like the sailor the books tell about.—Boston Transcript.

Plenty of Thought.

"Auntie," said the judge to the battered lady of color, "did your husband strike you with mallets aforethought?"
"Deed he didn't, judge," was the indignant reply. "He didn't hit me wid that mallet afore he thought. He'd been figgerin' on dat er long time, judge; deed he had."—Baltimore News.

An Easy Problem.

The beggar had a notice up, "Deaf and Dumb," and a passing philanthropist stopped in front of him.
"I'd like to give this man something," he said to his companion, "but how am I to know that he is deaf and dumb?"
"Read the notice, sir," whispered the beggar cautiously.—Chums.

Rubbing It In.

He—if you wufuse me, I shall put a bust through my brain.
She—The ideal! How could you?
He—I suppose you think I'm talking like a crazy man?
She—Oh, no, like a sharpshooter.—

Winks—And who made the speech?
Spurger—G'olly. He said, "Let me adelphia Record.

Girls Help Waiters to Cheat.
Among hotel employees sex does not appear to make any difference so far as honesty is concerned, says the Brooklyn Eagle. Certain young women who act as checkers in hotels work with certain waiters. Whenever one of the girls obtains a position the men soon follow her, and the hotel proprietor is victimized accordingly. The waiter who is in league with the checker makes a small private mark on the check with which he desires to cheat.
She sees it, and instead of stamping the prices against the articles ordered she puts her fingers over the figures on the die so that a slight blotch is all that is recorded in the place for figures.
The waiter does the rest. She keeps her account against her confederates, and they settle up later on the outside.

INGENTIVE TO EFFORT.

The Lesson Lincoln's Life Teaches to the Idle Bore.
It is human nature to take it easy when we can, and with most people a big bank account will paralyze effort and destroy ambition. Who can tell what would have been the effect on our national history had Abraham Lincoln been born in luxury, surrounded with great libraries, free to the multi-form advantages of schools, colleges and universities, the manifold opportunities for culture that wealth bestows? Who shall say whether the absence of all incentive to effort might not have smothered such a genius?

What wealthy, city bred youth of today, glutted with opportunities for acquiring knowledge, can feel that hunger for books, that thirst for knowledge that spurred Lincoln to scour the wilderness for many miles to borrow the coveted "Life of Washington" which he had heard that some one in the neighborhood owned?

What young lawyer of our day goes to a law school or library with such a keen appetite, with such a yearning for legal knowledge, as this youth had when he actually walked forty-four miles to borrow

TRACTION ENGINES.

A petition is before the supervisors for permission to place traction engines for the hauling of freight over the lone road. D. McCall, who is heavily interested in the freighting business between lone and the mineral belt, is the petitioner. There is nothing in the law to forbid the use of these machines over the public highway; nothing in fact to require a permit from the supervisors for their introduction here. Out of the abundance of caution, however, Mr. McCall, before starting in this enterprise, seeks the approval of the managing body of the county. Citizens generally will hail this movement as one that promises much for the future. The ledger more than a year ago advocated the traction engine for the movement of freight. Since then the Gwin Company has tried this method on the road between Valley Springs and its mine, and is satisfied with the result. For the winter months these machines are impracticable over the muddy roads, but for the greater part of the year they can be used successfully, making a great saving of cost over the old plan of horse teams. A railroad between lone and Jackson is what is needed. Why this enterprise has been so long neglected is a surprise to every stranger visiting this section, who is conversant with the eagerness with which transportation facilities are entered upon in the development of other regions. All of them remark that Jackson is the largest center of population and industry they have seen where a railroad is lacking, and where the lack could be supplied at so little comparative cost. There are no serious engineering difficulties in the way. It is argued that it would have paid the mining companies, the Standard Electric Company and the merchants, to have contributed if need be, one half the cost of constructing a railroad. If this had been done eight or ten years ago, they would no doubt have been repaid for the expenditure by the reduced freight rate ere this. But the fact remains, we haven't a railroad. The twelve miles is still unbridged by the iron rails the same as it was twenty-five years ago. For a quarter of a century Amador county, one of the most productive in wealth, considering its area, to be found in the state, has not moved one step in improved transportation facilities, notwithstanding there has been an enormous increase in the freight traffic. We believe the most profitable enterprise in Amador county today would be the building of a railroad to tap the mineral belt.

The traction engine is a half-way measure. No doubt it will at once establish its vast superiority over the hauling system heretofore in vogue. While welcoming its advent as the harbinger of better things to come, it is hoped the people will not rest content with it, but agitate, organize, and subscribe liberally for securing rapid transportation for both passengers and freight to and from the mother lode.

THE SALARY BILL.

In last week's Ledger and Dispatch Assemblyman McKenney published an article written for the purpose of justifying the introduction and passage of the bill providing salaries for justices and constables in Amador county in criminal business. The article in question does not change the status of the matter in the least. It falls immeasurably short of vindicating the system sought to be introduced in this county. We do not question the sincerity of Mr. McKenney in formulating and pressing the bill. He says he was prompted in this course by the purest motives, and with a due regard for the best interests of his constituents. We are not debating that proposition. We have thought, we still think, that the receipt of a petition from one township of the county, signed by a couple of hundred of the prominent citizens and taxpayers thereof, and reinforced by the receipt of a score of private letters, all of the same tenor, will fall short of commanding a verdict of approval from the taxpayers and citizens of Amador county generally in regard to this bill. Two weeks ago we pointed out the changes this bill will make in our county's finances. In that estimate we made due allowance for deduction of the fees now paid justices and constables. We reckoned that if it becomes a law the bill will add about $5000 more to the running expenses of the county. In answer to this we are told that five counties having a smaller population than Amador—namely, Kings, Stanislaus, Merced, Colusa and Glenn—the justices and constables are paid salaries twice as large as those proposed for Amador. Hence it is argued that if those sparsely settled counties can stand the salary system, surely Amador can stand under a modified dose of the same medicine. The reasoning is fatally defective. It loses sight of the all-important point of disparity in financial conditions. To make this plain, we herewith present a table showing the taxable wealth and the tax rate in these counties as compared with Amador:

Assessment	Tax Rate
Kings.....	7,871,294
Merced.....	14,426,777
Colusa.....	11,850,008
Glenn.....	10,330,877
Stanislaus.....	12,403,838
Amador.....	4,618,830

These figures are taken from the official statement issued by the state controller for the year 1902. They are therefore correct. The truth is, Amador county is among the smallest divisions of the state not only territorially, but financially speaking. There are only 12 out of the fifty-seven counties in the state with a smaller assessment roll than Amador. Circumstances alter cases. Amador is not in the same class with the other counties named; therefore comparisons are out of place. It would be just as reasonable to contend that an individual getting a salary of $50 per month ought to live on the same plane of expense as a man getting three times that salary. An increase of $5000 per year in running expenses would mean 31 cents added to the tax rate in Merced; in Amador it means over 10 cents. Seeing that Amador occupies a position as one of the most heavily tax-ridden counties of California—its county only having a higher rate—the policy it seems to us should be to frame laws that would have a tendency to reduce this high rate, rather than augment it. Perhaps the increased efficiency of these subordinate peace officers will counterbalance the drawback of extra cost. Time will tell; with all the chances in favor of this benefit proving mythical.

At the Rawhide mine, owned by W. A. Nevills, in Tuolumne county, the chlorination process of treating sulphurets is to be abandoned in favor of the cyanide process. It is claimed that by chlorination the cost is from $7 to $9 per ton, while experiments have demonstrated that with finer crushing a high percentage of value can be saved at a cost of $2 per ton. This is a point deserving of serious attention to mine owners along this part of the mother lode. So far in this county the cyanide process, although tested at various points, has not given satisfaction. It is not in use anywhere in the county. Perhaps the much finer crushing resorted to at the Rawhide explains the secret of success there, and failure here. If sulphurets can be treated at a cost of between $2 and $3 per ton, it would be an immense improvement over methods heretofore in vogue in this section.

Word was received yesterday that governor Pardee had signed the bill introduced by McKenney amending the county government act so as to place constables and justices in Amador county on a salary basis for services in criminal cases. It now remains to be seen whether present officials will attempt to collect salary under the provisions of this law. These officials are under bonds, and they are responsible on their official bonds for any money illegally received either as salary or fees. If salary is allowed according to the bill, and the matter is carried to the courts, with the result that such allowance is declared unconstitutional, it becomes a serious question whether the sureties would not be required to refund. Trying to get around the reserved rights of the people as expressed in the fundamental law, is a matter to be considered by bondsmen, as well as by the officials themselves.
